OFFICE OF PRESIDENT

May
19th
1954

To the Class of 1954:

A well-balanced program of extra-curricular activities can be justified in a college on the basis of its educational value. Publication of a yearbook easily justifies itself. It not only provides opportunity for student development, but at the same time the product becomes a lasting record for each student and a document valuable to the institution.

We congratulate the Class of 1954 upon continuing the publication and upon the excellence of the yearbook itself.

Very sincerely yours,

President and Mrs. R. B. Atwood

HOMECOMING

Students, faculty, and alumni usually look forward to homecoming as a week end of thrills and excitement. It is a time when good friends get together to visit their Alma Mater, and a time when students show their true school spirit. On homecoming day when a victory is to be won, cheers for the team are heard from the four corners of the campus.

On the eve of homecoming, the coronation of MISS KENTUCKY, the Grand March of the College President and students, and the Coronation Ball provided the thrills for the evening.

On homecoming day, when Kentucky trampled Fisk University by a score of 35-0, then was the real excitement. Charlie Finch scored two "K. S. C. styled" touchdowns; George Davis, Ernest Thornton, and Kenneth Minor scored one touchdown each. Over this triumph, Miss Kentucky reigned supreme. K. S. C.'s band, in its characteristic green and gold, contributed much to the glamour and excitement of the day.

Four smiling co-eds....

Woodson P. Welch, '94, is assisted by Mozelle Wilson, '54, as Lloyd E. Alexander waits at a reception in honor of the Classes.

Pleasant memories of the past were revitalized and exchanged by representatives of K S C's graduating classes of the years ending in "four," when they once again appeared on the site of their considerably-changed Alma Mater, for the purpose of participating in the first of the annual ten-year "Reunion of Classes." Representatives of these classes, beginning with the Class of '94, which had only one survivor, participated heartily in the five-day program along with a representative of the Class of '29, who commemorated the silver anniversary of K S C's granting to him one of its first four-year college degrees.

FRANKFORT — State College Thorobreds met the West Virginia college Yellow Jackets, tonight, 8 p.m., at Alvin... This game should be one of the best of the season since 1947. Victory was not without pain, however. The Thorobreds opened the game with an end run early in the first period by William King for a touchdown. They then failed for the extra point but were on top with a score of 6-0.

Victory was short lived and King's 15-yard dash seemed fruitless when, in a very few moments, Kimble of the Tigers ran yards down the field, tying the score. The extra point was successful and the Thorobreds led.

After the half, the Thorobreds journeyed to Lexington, Ky., and tasted victory for the first time this season as they defeated the Winston Salem State college by a score of 13-0. The Thorobreds had a reverse of form from their first appearance when they were defeated by West Virginia State.

This should be a gift of all the mobile as a "98" Oldsmobile. The "98" love and respect from the Alumni, students and friends of a great athlete and coach. Once the boys were back on the field in the third period, Kentucky State showed it had no respect of persons and opened it with a pass from McCormick to Fowler for a touchdown and put the Thorobreds back in front with a lead of 13-7.

But the "Tigers" were playing for "Master" with a march down the field for four touchdowns.

Other freshmen, who have looked good are Isaiah Brown, guard, Opa Lacka, Lawrence P. Davis, 194, fullback, Washington, D. C.; Yates Brockle, 170, quarterback, Washington, D. C.; Johnny L. Tell, 72, guard, Miami, Fla., and Bernard Robinson, 190, fullback, Washington, D. C.

NASHVILLE—The Tennessee State Tigers sewed up the season by trouncing Kentucky State's Thorobreds 34-13 last Thursday. It was the Tigers' eighth in a row and their security for the first undefeated season since 1947.

Peoples Scores 2 TDs as KSC Drives Through Master Win

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., drove through the rain and mud in the second period and another in the third, here tonight.

Curtis Samuels gave Winston Salem a 6-0 lead in the second period when he plunged the two yards to climax a 45-yard scoring drive.

But Kentucky State rolled for two scoring drives in the second period with Peoples plus two yards and then taking a yard pass from James Taylor in the second.

Jodie Wilson intercepted on the KSC 30 and ran Teachers touchdown in the period. The Kentucky tied a few minutes later in the final period as Robinson 16-yard pass from Taylor winning touchdown.

The staff of the 1954 Thorobred thanks those faculty members and students who gave us support in making the yearbook successful. Each of you gave us good advice along with good cooperation. However, the most outstanding contributions came from those of you who helped our editor of photography gather the necessary pictures for our layout department. The literary department received help from persons who could identify certain important pictures.

The success of a project, like an annual or yearbook, depends on group cooperation. Without that support an editor could not even start to work. It is hoped that every student who received a yearbook enjoys it.
